

JBR JURASSIC CLASSIC

Race Rules

1. Be extraordinarily polite to other trail users. If you come across non-racers, you still need to follow the standard rules of the trail. Since you are on a bike, that means you yield to everyone else. We will have a zero tolerance policy for racers who are jerks to any other trail users.
2. Be nice when passing! If you are being passed by someone in another category, pull off and let them by as soon as it is practical to do so. If you are passing someone from another category, ask nicely to go by, and patiently wait for a good opportunity to go around. When passing or being passed by someone in your category, the lead rider does not need to yield to the passing rider, however, may not block someone either. Just be nice.
3. If you go off course, you have to go back to where you left the course and start again from there.
4. It is your responsibility to know how many laps and what course you should be racing.
5. Tell the timers if you don't finish the race. Otherwise, please stay clear of the timing area. We will post results as soon as we can.
7. Don't litter. Please respect the trails and land that we have worked so hard to maintain and preserve. Any wrappers or trash need to be packed out with the rider. We are not your maids.
8. Racers must wear a cycling helmet and sign a waiver.
9. Common sense applies in all other cases. If that doesn't work, we will make an arbitrary decision.

Divisions

Kids Race: If there is interest we will have a kids race after the other races. The course will be a out and back a short distance on the Dry Well Road or a small loop around the finish line.

Beginner Category: The Beginner Category is for the rider who is still working on skill and fitness or who is new to mountain biking. If you are a beginner to racing, try this category. This is also a great race for those older kids that are ready to hit the longer trails.

Sport Category: The Sport category is for the rider that wants a little longer race than the Beginner race, but isn't quite ready for the expert category. This is still a happy bunch of people that just want to be on a bike and enjoy the awesome trails. Men/Women may have different start times, depending on the number of participants.

Expert Category: The name pretty much explains it. These ladies and gentlemen are out for blood and want to win! The course is more technical course and significantly longer. This is also a great option for the endurance folks that want to put in more miles than the other two categories. This course is more difficult than the other two, and it is not advised that folks new to a mountain bike enter this category.
